

Project S-3 Western Regional WWTF

The Western Regional Wastewater Treatment Facility in Pearlinton continues to move forward in construction. Carollo Engineers, the Creel Company, Haynes Electric, and other subcontractors are working to make this project go as smoothly as possible. The concrete placement is nearly complete for two of the three major structures on site. Throughout the next month, construction work will include the placement of underground process piping and electrical conduit, concrete for the remaining structure, and site grading. We appreciate the opportunity of serving the community in this way.
